

Dear Vice-Chair Katz:

I am a frequent user of the Metrolink Ventura County rail line, and its four peak round trips are critical to my access to workplace and home. During peak hours, train service is essential because bus service to and from areas serviced by Ventura County trains is extremely limited.

I realize Metrolink may have a revenue problem, but the goal should be to make train service more efficient and attractive to potential users by linking trips to increase station pairs throughout the system. Intelligent train service reforms can save the peak and weekend trains.

Please consider off-peak bus feeders, because many of us have suburb-to-suburb commutes and irregular hours, and sometimes we need to return home early. More service, not less is needed -- all day and on weekends -- as an alternative to growing congestion. Additionally, by creating through corridors, Metrolink can move toward a true Regional Rail strategy.
